

Jerry Ford (left) was honored as Masonic Homes of Kentucky's Volunteer of the Year. Masonic Homes Senior Administrative Assistant and Ford's daughter, Cathy Kannapel presented the award.

Masonic Homes of Kentucky Honors Volunteer of Year

Jerry Ford was named Masonic Homes of Kentucky's Corporate 2009 Volunteer of the Year.

Ford assist with the dining experience at The Bistro, the casual dining venue on Masonic Homes of Kentucky's Frankfort Avenue campus. Twice a week he seats patrons, educates first timers and helps clear tables when needed. His personality allows customers to feel comfortable and adds to the dining experience. Since Ford started volunteering in The Bistro, business has increased and dining runs smoothly.

Retired from Jefferson County Sheriff's Department property tax office, Ford now dedicates his days to assisting others. When not at The Bistro, he volunteers at Suburban Hospital.

"He's always helpful, friendly and knowledgeable," said Vice President of Independent Living Anne McAfee. "Our customers appreciate the extra touch Jerry brings."
