

Masonic Home of Louisville honored Occupational Therapist Jenny Kief (center) as Employee of the Year. Louisville Administrator Lori Hess (left) and Sr. VP of Therapy Services Natalie Tinsley congratulate Tinsley.

Jenny Kief named Masonic Home employee of the year

Masonic Home of Louisville named Jenny Kief Employee of the Year for 2009.

“Jenny treats every resident like they are the only one she will see that day,” said Masonic Homes of Kentucky Sr. VP/Therapy Natalie Tinsley.

Kief has been an occupational therapist at Masonic Home for over two years. She was crucial in transitioning from contracted therapy services to providing them in-house. Her focus remained the residents and helped make sure their routines were not disturbed. Kief’s natural leadership ability will be essential when transferring to the new Care Center in December.

Kief was one of more than 150 employees honored by Masonic Homes of Kentucky at its annual Above & Beyond Employee Appreciation Celebration.

Social Services Assistant Debbie Broyles and Certified Nurse Aide Diane Howell were honored for 25 years of service to Masonic Home. Certified Medical Technician Mary McCage received a pin for 20 years of service; Social Services Assistant Gail Dumstorf and Chaplain Tim Morrow were awarded 10 year service pins.

Also, 30 employees were honored for perfect attendance during 2009.

About Masonic Home of Louisville

Founded in 1867 as a home for orphans and widows, Masonic Home of Louisville is a leader in senior living services providing personal care, skilled nursing care and short-stay rehabilitation therapies. It is the largest nursing facility in Jefferson County. For more information, visit www.masonichomesky.com.

#