Renae Hunter named Masonic Home employee of the year

Masonic Home of Shelbyville named Renae Hunter Employee of the Year for 2009.

“Renae forms a special bond with each resident and tends to their every need, regardless of what it is,” said Masonic Home Director of Nursing Sally Jo Magness.

Hunter has been a CNA for the Home for 5 years and serves as a mentor to newly hired nursing staff. Her outstanding on-the-job performances have been instrumental in assisting with the culture change.

Hunter has two children and her mother, Jessie Moore, also works at the Home in environmental services.

Hunter was one of more than 150 employees honored by Masonic Homes of Kentucky at its annual Above & Beyond Employee Appreciation Celebration.

Maintenance Director Donald Carey and Supply Manager Carol Sanford were honored for 30 years of service to the Masonic Home. Certified Nurse Aide Naomi Goodman received a pin for 20 years of service; Certified Medical Technicians Shirley Pinkie and Brenda Reynolds were awarded 15 year service pins.

Also, four employees— Dining Services Cook Jerry Cavanaugh, Certified Nurse Aide Judy Cook, Staffing Coordinator Bonnie Crafton and Supply Manager Carol Sanford—were honored for perfect attendance during 2009.
