

THE ROOT OF OUR NAME

Frederick Law Olmsted is recognized as the founder of American landscape architecture and the nation's foremost landscape artist of the 19th century. Olmsted is best known for his role in the creation of New York City's Central Park, of which he was superintendent and chief architect.

His landscape architecture firm designed the original layout for Masonic Homes Kentucky's Louisville Campus. Originally called Little City Beautiful, the 82-acre campus is a prime example of Olmsted's vision of growing lush flowers, trees and bushes; for generations to follow. In recognition of his lasting legacy, the building at the center of our Louisville Campus was named The Olmsted.

A legacy is planting a tree that will benefit others when you are gone. We invite you to be a part of something that started before you and will continue for years to come.
